London, Feb. 6.-(Special Cable.)-As stated in this cable correspondence last week, Mr. Dillon, the Irish leader, finds himself too late in the field with his opposition to the appointment of a new commission to examine into the financial relations existing between Great Britain and Ireland. If an amendment regarding the subject had been moved to the address in reply to the queen's speech, the debate must have circled from the government some idea of its intentions as to the scope of the commission and its probable composition. The opposition would have thus obtained some information enabling them to take a definite line of attack against the government's proposals. As it is the scheme of the cabinet has been allowed to be matured in the dark, and its discussion has only been accorded week, Mr. Dillon, the Irish leader, finds the scheme of the cabinet has been allowed to be matured in the dark, and lits discussion has only been accorded when the government could not help it; that is on the cabinet's proposals being placed before the house of commons. The commission will be empowered to deal with a much wider range of inquiry than was the commission of 1883. Its inquiry will certainly last more than two years, as was originally announced in this correspondence, and before the final report can be made to the house the government will be prepared to connect the commission's finding with the copesitone of their brish policy—the local government of breland this and the redistribution of seats bill, the latter of which will deprive breland of some 30 seats in the imperial parliament. The government at first intended to have only seven members constitute the commission. Urgent representations from the brish landlords from the great brewers, and other interests will induce them to enlarge the membership.

will induce them to enlarge the membership.

The brewers, who have great influence among the Unionists and contribute largely to the party purse, fear that the suggested increase in the duty on beer to balance a possible reduction in the duty on whisky may find support in the commission. The Irish contention is that beer is unduly favored. Equalization would be a severe blow to the brewing interests and to the English beer drinkers, but would be a questionable boon to the Irish whisky drinkers.

VIC WHLL OPEN A TOWN HALL.

SENATOR WOLCOTT'S MISSION. The effect of Senator Wolcott's mission in the interests of bimetallism will only be known after his return to Washington from Europe. The active bimetallists in parliament whom Mr. Welcott has seen, hold that the initiative for a new international conference should be taken by the United States government and that the conference should meet in Washington. The leaders of the British Bimetallic Union have been in communication with the chiefs of the German League who would approve of initial American action. The British government would undoubtedly send representations of conference at Brussels finds no favor in English monetary circles. The inst conference held there it would have a precedent in fulfilly which would not pertain to a Washington conference.

to the conference can be forecasted from certain official utterances here it will be summed up in contending that the measures to check the spread of the epidemic in India are as perfect as can be, and that the best protection against the epidemic afflicting Europe will be greater attention to cleanliness at the ports and among the peoples of Europe. Put phininly, the English delegates will say: 'Your quarantine proposals are useless. Get clean and the plague will not attack you?' The notorious unsanitary state of the Italian towns, the dirty labits of the people, the filthiness of Russians, and the defects of sanitation in Austria and Germany, and even French centers as compared with the English, will give point to the English contention. Spasmodic sanitary efforts were made at the time of the last cholera epidemic in Germany, Russia and continental countries, but since then the Following is the full text of Reprebill, which is now in the hands of the house committee on mines. The committee will be glad to hear any suggestions or objections from those who are interested in its provisions:

TEXT OF THE BILL.

TEXT OF THE BILL.

An act to provide for a state inspector of mines other than coal mines, to define his duties, the rights and duties of mine operators and to provide a punishment for violations of the provisions of this act.

Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Utah:
Section 1. The governor shall appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, one mine inspector of the mines of the state of Utah. Said inspector shall hold his office for the term of two years, or until his successor is appointed and qualified. The first appointment hereunder shall be made on or before the first day of April. 189-, and in case of removal, resignation or death, the vacency shall be filled by appointment by the governor for the unexpired term.

Sec. 2. No person shall be appointed inspector who is not a citizen of the United States and of the state of Utah, and unless he has a practical knowledge of the modern methods of working, ventilating and timbering mines, and he mast have had an experience of at least three years in mining in the mines of this state.

Sec. 2. Before entering upon the discharge of his duties the inspector shall take the official oath and give a bond to the state in the sum of 50,000, to be approved by the governor conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties. Said boad shall be deposited with the secretary of state.

There really seems to be a conspiracy of silence on the part of the leading London papers seems to be a conspiracy of steenes on the part of the leading London papers regarding the misappropriation of the vast sum estimated at £17,000,000 steriling, raised by additional taxacion in India to provide for the inevitable recurring famines. A circular issued by the socialist council points out that this famine fund was started on the hypothesis that every ten years £15,000,000 steriling would be required to relieve a famine; that the population of India has increased in the last ten years by 30,000,000; that the huge sum of 200,000,000 runces is now paid annually to English officially, military and civilian, the depression of gold and the depreciation of silver with the stoppage of the coining of silver at the mints, have involved the population in common ruin, and that English greed and misrule is the cause of the famine.

THE INSPECTOR'S DUTIES.

Sec. 4. The inspector shall not act as manager, agent or lessee for any mining or other cotporation or company during his term of office, but shall give his whole time and attention to the duties of the office to which he has been appointed. He shall, on receipt of any reliable information relating to the health and safety of the workmen employed in any mine in the state, examine the condition of such mine, and on receipt of notice of any recident in any mine, whether fatal or not, he shall personally inquire into the cause of such accident, and if upon such examination he deem it necessary he shell issue a notice to the owner, agent, minager or lessee of such mine, of what change or additions are necessary to insure the health or safety of the workingmen employed. He shall personally inspect all mines in this state at least once each year, and as often as he considers such inspection, necessary, or receives a notice from any person that the health or safety of the workingmen require such inspection, and he shall not be required to give notice to any owner, agent, manager or essee of the time when such inspection, shall be made. He shall see that the provisions and requirements provided for in this act are faithfully observed and object and that all existing laws consistent with this act be enforced. THE INSPECTOR'S DUTIES. Mr. John Burns, M. P., of the trade union parliamentary committee, recently asked the approval of that committee to the appointment of a permanent trades union bureau.

The purpose of this bureau is to interfere in the settlement of trades disputes, strikes and lockouts; to secure from the various unions official help for strikers; to initiate and watch labor legislation in parliament and generally to form the permanent executive.

WORKING AND TIMBERING. Sec. 5. It shall be his duty to compile, for report, the names and locations of all mines in operation in this state, and to collect and report all the data possible in regard to the manner of working the same, whether by shaft, tunnel, incline or otherwise. It shall be his duty to examine the condition of the machinery, engages, bothers, whims, cages, cars, buckets, roses and chains used for the extinguisaropes and chains used for the extinguishment of fires. He shall examine the mean ner and methods of working and timbering the shafts, drifts, inclines, stopes, winzes, tunnels and upraises, through which persons pass to and fro. He shall examine all exits from the mine, the manner of ventiliation, also how and where all explosives and inflammable supplies are stored, and shall see that everything in and about the workings of the mines of this state are conducted in such a manner as to secure the best possible safety to the employees therein, consistent with good practical mining.

Sec. 6. Every owner, agent, manager or lessee of any mine in this state shall, anor application, admit the inspector to such mine on the exhibition of his certificate of appointment, for the purpose of making the examinations and inspectors and mine on the exhibition of his certificate of appointment, for the purpose of making the examinations and inspectors shall not unnecessarily obstruct the working of said mine. Upon the refusal of any owner, agent, manager or lessee to admit the inspector, or his assistants, if any, to such mine, such owner, agent, manager or lessee than $560.

Sec. 7. Any inspector appointed under

See. 7. Any inspector appointed under the provisions of this act, or any assist-ant of such inspector who shall reveal any information in regard to ore bodies, chutes, or deposits of ere, or location, course or character of underground work-ings, or who shall give any information or opinion respecting any mine, obtained by them in making such inspection, upon conviction thereof, shall be removed from affice and fined in any sum not more than 500.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE ACT.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE ACT.

Sec. 8. The inspector shall exercise a sound discretion in the enforcement of the provisions of this act, and if he shall find any matter, thing, or practice, in or connected with any mine to be dangerous and defective, so as to, in his opinion, threaten or tend to the badily injury of any employee, he shall immediately give notice in writing thereof to the owner, agent, manager or lesses of such mine, stating in such notice the particulars in which he considers such mine or part thereof, or practice to be dangerous or defective, and order the same to be remedied.

According to the Saturday Review, Dr. W. J. Leyds, the secretary of state of the South African republic, is about to resign his office.

The Conservative press are unanimous in their praise of the speech delivered in the house of commons yesterday by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer, in which he served notice on France that Great Britain proposed to remain in occupation of Egypt indefinitely, while the Liberal Journals denounce the speech as a reckless and needless irritation of France.

Sald annual report shall contain the name and number of mines visited, and in operation; the number and character of accidents, fatal and non-fatal, that may have occurred in and about the mines. This and all other pertinent information shall be embodied in said report. All instruments, books and memoranda pertaining to the office shall be the property of the state and shall be delivered to his successor in office.

Sec. 12. The inspector of mines shall receive a salary of — dollars a year and — cents per mile for milesac actually and necessarily traveled in the discharge of his official duties, said mileage not to exceed $80 in any one year. He is hereby authorized to procure such instruments necessary to the proper discharge of his duties under this act, at the expense of the state treasurer, upon accounts fully certified and audited by the inspector to perform the duties or requirements of this act shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than 1500 nor more than $1.500. All times collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the general fund of the treasury of the state.

COSMOPOLITAN NEWSPAPER. Happy Scheme of Two Frenchmen For Making Money.

San Francisco, Feb. 6.-L. Leroy and H. Papillaud, Parisian newspapermen who arrived here yesterday on the steamer City of Peking from Yokehama, are en route on an unusual tour of the world. They left Paris two years ago to four the world under a promise to their friends that they would depart without a cent and raise money for their expenses as they went along, without begging, borrowing or doing any menial work. They had not been gone long before they hit upon a scheme of raising money by oub-lishing a paper at different cities frey visited. They called it the "En Route," and charged $2 a year for it to subscribers, and solicited advertisements for it. They claim to have published $2$ editions of the paper so far in various cities and to have obtained 5.000 subscribes.

They started their paper at Con-stantinopie, but were refused a permit to publish it for over two months. It was printed in the French and Turk-ish languages. The Jerusalem edition was published in French and Arabic. In Bombay and other cities of India, portions of their paper were printed in the language of the Parsee and the other parts is English and French.
One edition of the paper was issued in Pekin and Mr. Leroy claims it was the fifst paper ever published there. It was in Chinese, English and French. The last edition was printed in Vokobama and part French. The last edition was printed in Yokohama and part was in Japanese and the rest of the paper in English and French. It is their intention to publish their thirteenth edition in this city. They have not as yet decided which way they will go from here.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a beal disease and prescribed local remdies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and muccus surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO. Toledo.
